

Are You Sitting (Too) Comfortably?

INTRODUCTION:

When in your comfort zone you're on auto-pilot. You may feel confident, relaxed, secure, snug even - it's an easy place to be. The question is, have you overstayed your welcome? Answer the questions below to find out

"It is not because things are difficult that we do not dare, it is because we do not dare that they are difficult." Seneca

Answer these questions briefly, before you score yourself below:

1. When was the last time you tried something new?
2. How much are you learning and growing right now?
3. Do you feel you're doing too much - or not enough?
4. When was the last time you took a risk?
5. Do you feel like it's time for a shift - or a change?

So, where are you on the "Comfort Continuum"?

Use your gut-feeling to put an X on the line to represent how comfortable you are in your life right now:

Does where you are on the "Comfort Continuum" serve you and your goals?

Do you need time in your comfort zone to rest and recharge? Are you just right? Or are you heading towards Snoozeville?

Are You Sitting (Too) Comfortably?

"Life begins at the end of your comfort zone." Neale Donald Walsch

What have you been putting off doing because it makes you uncomfortable?

What actions will you take?

It could be anything. Examples include creating necessary "me" time, starting your business, reviewing your marketing strategies for your present business, making a difficult phone call, taking a vacation, making a decision that supports you but disappoints someone else, starting a new hobby or activity - or letting go of a habit, activity, role, job or something else that no longer serves you. Simply write your actions in the space below, being as specific as you can:

1st Action Something you can do Now! (right away or by the end of today) _____

2nd Action _____ By when _____

3rd Action _____ By when _____

Remember that discomfort simply means you're learning - and growing!
